The other articles are about the same as they are in the writer's list. May I ask the writer of the or anyone else to explain how it is that the price is higher at Rothwell than at Loftmouse?

CONSTANT BEAL

THE ROTHWELL CAUSEWAY

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Sir,

I beg to call the attention of our Council to the state of some of our mainstreets. In places where the carriage wheel enters the main streets, it is very difficult for people to walk. It will be noticed that at the crossings the mainstreets are paved. These pavements have become round with wear, instead of square; the kerbstones are also round. Not only this, but the stones are nearly four or five inches below the level of the mainstreets. In greasy we-

As we are just now having, it is not safe for any walk across such places. For instance, at the bottom of Mr. Hampson's yard, the bottom of the avenue, and several others. I saw that a while the paving stones at the bottom of Mr. Edwards' had been raised. Why should not other places be treated likewise? Our Council should be on the watch for such milk-drinking places and try to remove them.

I saw an old-headed man, not long since one of those unrelieved places and have had experience myself.

Yours truly

"No, sir," answered the clerk.

"Well, I'll just wait a few moments," said the traveller, and thereupon he started showing some samples to the clerk.

In the midst of it, Mr. Smith, the builder himself, appeared at the street door, behind the traveller, and immediately took in the

 ROTHWELL PRIMITIVE A.B.C.
 DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.
 On Monday night, there was a large attendance in the Rothwell Primitive School, for the occasion of the second prize

tribution in connection with the above.
The Rev. J. A. Alderson presided, and distributed the prizes, which consisted of neatly bound books, etc. Speeches were delivered on the success of the work of the past year, and the working of the undertaking in the future. A short entertainment followed and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Lovers love to tell each other what they think of each other. So do married people sometimes—and they do it, too.

A man never seems to value his home as highly as he does when a frisky wind is rolling along the pavement just three feet in front of him.

Little girl: "Oh, mamma—come get Mamma!" Mercy! What is the matter with the girl? There's a mouse in the kitchen, and the poor cat is the only one to notice it.

Customer (in a restaurant): "See waiter, I've found a button in this seat."

Walter: "That is all right, sir; it is a part of the dressing."

"Why did you pass yesterday without looking at me?" said a beautiful woman Talleyrand. "Because, madam, if I looked I could not have passed."

"Come to lunch?" "Can't, dear, quite too busy." "Why, what are you doing?" "I've got to get my hair cut." "I've got to be measured for a new pelreline."

"Well, Tommy, what are you going to do when you grow up?" said one child to another. "I'm going to be a school teacher."

"But you may get killed," "Then I'll die like a hero!"

"Oh, the enemy." "Then I'll die like a hero."

Von Blumer: "My wife has just come home from her maid. Now she has a colourless complexion." "What did she get a cold?"

Mrs. Von Blumer: "I suppose so, because I can't see to kiss her face dark."

Mrs. Andjerry: "I don't know what's become of Tommy. He's only ten, but he's a little bit of a mischief-maker. Does he know anything that would break a naughty spirit?"

Mrs. B. Hites (sadly): "Yes; make him a baby on the street."

doctor (to his patient): I WARN you, madam, but before prescribing I must know how you are. Miss Antiques, sir, a lady is only as old as she feels. You (amazed): "Impossible. You certainly must be younger than that."

"Ma'mma," said Willie, after he had returned from school, "I saw a poor little boy way home who had never heard of cream." "That was too bad," said his mother. "What did you say to him?" "I said," replied Willie earnestly, "that I almost forgotten it myself."

THE WELSH COAL CRISIS.

To the Editor of the Rothwell Times.

Sir,
At a public meeting held at the Cross, Rothwell, on Tuesday night, the following resolution was unanimously carried:—"That this meeting of the inhabitants of Rothwell pledges itself to support by any means in its power, the starving men, women, and children, who are fighting a just cause in South Wales for something like a living wage, and urge upon the local papers to open a weekly subscription list on behalf of this half-million British workers and their dependants." Hoping you will give it your

"Why did you pass yesterday without looking at me?" said a beautiful woman to Talleyrand. "Because, madam, if I had looked I could not have passed."

"Come to lunch?" "Can't, dear boy."

"Well, Tommy, what are you going to be when you grow up?" said one child to another. "I'm going to be a soldier." "But you may get killed." "Who by?" "Oh, the enemy." "Then I'll be the enemy."

Mrs. Andjerry: "I don't know what to do with our Tommy. He's only ten, and incorrigible. Do you know anything that will break a haughty spirit?" Mr. Brooklyn Hites (sadly): "Yes; make him mind the baby on the street."

Doctor (to his patient): "Pardon me, madam, but before prescribing I must know how old you are." Miss Antique: "Oh, sir, a lady is only as old as she looks." Doctor (amazed): "Impossible, madam. You certainly must be younger than that."

"Mamma," said Willie, after he had come from school, "I saw a poor little boy on my way home who had never heard of ice-cream." "That was too bad," said Willie's

"And that is silver ore, is it?" said an old lady, as she examined a curious-looking bit of mineral. "Yes," said her husband. "And how do they get the silver out?" "They smelt it." "Well, that's queer," she said, applying her nose to the ore; "I smelt it too, but I didn't get any silver."

A gentleman living in Leeds was a smoking boy. When a friend called recently, the father said to him politely, "I wish to have another cigar to offer you, looking as you greet at the one he is smoking." Now was the small boy's chance. "I know where they are, pa," he said, dragging open a drawer and bringing out a box of a choice brand.

DEATH OF MR. RALPH DISRAELI, AT OULTON HALL.

"We deeply regret that so soon after their festive home-coming, our young Squire and his family should be thrown into mourning, by the somewhat sudden death of Mr. R. Disraeli, only brother to the great Earl of Beaconsfield, and father of Mrs. Selwin Selous. The young gentleman had come over to Oulton Hall, to spend a few days with his only daughter, and, and to say, he was taken ill, and died on Tuesday, in his 90th year. The remains will be removed to London to-morrow, and the interment will take place early next week.

ROTHWELL PRIMITIVE METH-ODIST CHAPEL A.B.C.

Last Sunday afternoon at the A.B.C. there was an excellent attendance. Mr. Smiles, of Leeds, was the speaker, and he used his subject, "Is life worth living?" in a most efficient manner. Mr. Wesley, of Castleford, gave two solos on his auto-harp in prizeworthy style. Mr. John Harriman occupied the choir, and Master John Thos. Smith read the lesson. There was a collection on the 5th of the Leeds Infirmary, which realised £10s 6d.

ADULTERATED MILK.

At the West Riding Police Court, Wakefield, last Friday, Mr. John Bean, farmer, of Rothwell Haigh, was summoned for having sold adulterated milk. Mr. F. D. Wardle, assistant solicitor, prosecuted on behalf of the West Riding County Council. Mr. R. H. Hargreaves, M. P., for the defendant. The case was heard by Mr. J. H. Hargreaves, M. P., acting for the Rothwell District Council, and lasted on the morning of the 15th ult. he visited the defendant's house, and purchased a pint of new milk from defendant's wife. The milk was analysed, and the analyst certified that it contained 13 per cent of added water. Defendant denied in testimony that any water had been added, and the milk was sold in exactly the same state as it came from the cow. To pay £1 11s.

ROTHWELL WESLEYAN P.S.A.

The usual meeting of this Society was held on Sunday afternoon in the Wesleyan Chapel. An address was given by Mr. Martin, of Headingly College, on "Success," Mr. Thornton presided. Two solos were sung by Miss Blackburn, entitled "The beautiful prayer," and "God will take care of you." Mr. Louis Ward and Mr. Thorp Hampson assisted at the organ. Heartly thanks were accorded all those who had helped in the service.

As a safe, permanent, and warranted cure for Pimples, Scars, Scabby, Red Legs and Ecol Diseases, and Sores of all kinds, we can with confidence recommend CARLSON'S Wonderful Blood Purifier. Sold by Chemists everywhere.

Irascible Party: "Conductor, why didn't you wake me up as I asked you? Here I am miles beyond my station."

Conductor: "I'm sorry, but all I could get out of you was: 'All right, Maria! Get the children their breakfast, and I'll be down in a minute.'"

THE END OF JOE'S ARGUMENT.

Johnny came home from school the other day very angry.

What do you think, pal Joe Smith, one of the big boys, had an argument with his teacher about a question in grammar.

"What question did he argue?"

"His last position was across the chair, face down," replied Johnny.

ETCHING A CHAIR TO TAKE HIM DOWN.

An officer of very small stature, but very heavily armed, was one day vehemently scolding the first soldiers of his company, who were very tall. The soldiers stood it for some time, but finding, however, that instead of abating, the rage of the officer went on increasing, he quietly said to the head man:

"Bill, fetch a chair for him to stand on,
I think he wants to box my ears."

under our own eye, and affecting our reader's interests in one way or another. Perhaps five years ago, when the Rev. J. A. Hirst was Minister of the Church of St. Andrew, the pews and galleries were working all through the summer, and affording no rest to the masters, but regular work to the workmen. This stream of good trade has, of course, affected the value of the real estate in the district, and has been a source of much pleasure to the owners.

Our worthy M.P., Mr. R. P. Pickard and Mr. A. H. Hirst are still with us, though we regret the continuance of Mr. Hirst's illness. Mr. Hirst has been a great help to the cause, and his death would be a great loss to the community.

The annual election for the Sturton School Board took place on April 2nd, but there was only a contest in one ward, the south, where Mr. Taylor retained his position. The election was a quiet one, and the result was a confirmation of the present board.
